IS CLIMAX TO FIGHT

"Doing fairly well but seriously injured," was the report given out Friday night at the Mercy hospital, Pittsburg, on the condition of J. Westley Channing, coal and iron police of the Vesta Coal company, whose lung was punctured by a bullet alleged to have been fired by Louis Marchinak, who with his "pal," John Kasparo, has been placed in the county jail. John W. Damback of Vesta, is thankful that he carried a package of cigarets in his trouser's pocket, as a bullet from the gun of Marchinak passed through his clothing and was detected when it hit the cigarets.

W. L. Peterson, of Charleroi, Railroad Brakeman Taken to Hospital Seriously Injured--His Train "Ambulance Train"

"I wonder who will be next," mused W. L. Peterson, a brakeman of the P. M. and S. night run, as, thinking of late mishaps on his train, he left for the scene of his nightly endeavors Friday night. This morning Peterson was entered as a patient at the Memorial hospital at Monongahela with a badly cut head, a gash over one eye and other serious injuries.

He received his injuries while trying to board the morning passenger train No. 173, due in Charleroi at 7:27 o'clock. This train had become known as the ambulance train because of its use of late in conveying injured men to hospitals. Conductor Greenawalt on Monday was taken to the Uniontown hospital with his leg broken in two places and his foot crushed. On Friday morning Coal and Iron Policeman Wes. Channing, of Vesta No. 5 was taken to a Pittsburg hospital with injuries on the morning train.

Peterson was waiting at West Brownsville Junction when the train approached. The junction is not a stop, but he attempted to board the train. He was thrown violently against the train. He sustained a cut over his left eye and a badly [illegible] arm. Bones protruded through the flesh of his arm but he did not lose consciousness.

Peterson is 28 years of age and rooms at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Entrott, at 308 Fallowfield avenue. He has no relatives here, but his sisters living in the west and one brother in the army. He left the army two months ago, and came to Roscoe, where he worked a time, then secured a railroad position.

Garbage Wagon Leaves Trail of "Smoke" and Health Officer is Called

Complaints were made to Health Officer W. M. Darby this morning in an effort to secure a remedy from the offensiveness of Saturday morning hauling of garbage along Long alley. The wagon, laden with refuse that gave forth an odor that could be smelled almost half a block was stopped near Fifth street for several minutes, while more garbage was being loaded. Complaints were immediately entered with Health Officer W. M. Darby. Drivers of the wagon were requested to move it. They hurried through their work as rapidly as possible.

ARMY WORM MAKES INROADS AT MANY NORTHERN POINTS

The army worms seems to have taken the entire eastern part of the United States by storm. They have appeared in large numbers in Homestead and Pittsburg and reports also come from New York state. They are reported to be worst in Buffalo, Dunkirk and Elmira, New York.

They have been reported to be in more than a dozen counties, in Pennsylvania. In many instances lawns in the best of conditions are completely destroyed within an hour. They look as though a forest fire had swept them. No new reports have come in from Charleroi as yet.

GOOD SCORES BY NATIONAL GUARD

Company A of Tenth Regiment Leads in Discipline and Drilling

Results of the inspection made of the organizations of the National Guard of Pennsylvania during the winter and spring were made public in a general order issued from National Guard headquarters.

As a rule, the various regiments and auxiliary organizations were found to be in good condition and the only criticisms made are that there has not been more drilling and that the attendance at drill has not been better.

Company A, Tenth Regiment of Monongahela, was among the leading companies with a percent of 99.45. This company had a general average of 99.22. The Tenth regiment officers lead all the regiments with 100 percent.

DEED TRANSFERRED; DEPOT WORK TO BE STARTED AT ONCE

The deed for the sale of two lots at the corner of Sixth street and McKean avenue by S. L. Woodward to the Pittsburg Railways company was transferred today. The consideration for the property is $5,000.

The transferance of the deed means that the Pittsburg Railways company will begin immediately the work of erecting a passenger and freight station. The ordinance calling for right-of-way on Sixth street permitting the company to lay tracks has been passed by council, and signed by Burgess Woodward and accepted by the company. Only the Public Service Commission has to pass on the plan now, and there is hardly any likelihood of objections being presented before this body.

United Temperance League Plans Active Campaign in this County

Plans for an active summer and fall campaign in support of the temperance cause, were laid by the United Temperance league of Washington county at its monthly meeting at Washington Friday. A field man will be employed to take active charge of the campaign of education. A feature of the campaign work during the summer months will be picture exhibits of means of a stereopticon machine. All pictures will relate to the liquor traffice of the county.

Temperance people in attendance at the meeting felicitated themselves over the decision of superior court judges this week to the effect that judges have the power under the Brooks license law to refuse all licenses in a county, if they see fit, on the grounds of "no necessity."

Massachusetts Judge to Open up Chautauqua on Monday

CAROLINEURS APPEAR

Judge George D. Alden of Massachusetts, is to open the Redpath-Brockway chautauqua on the Meadow avenue lot Monday afternoon with his famous lecture, "The Powder and the Match." Judge Alden is said to be a disbeliever in long lectures on warm days and has promised the first day's chautauqua crowd that it will not be expected to listen to any long-winded discourse.

A feature of the opening session is to be a musical recital of the Carolineurs, an aggregation composed of five men who sing and produce marvelous music on 200 silver bells. The quartet is composed of Thomas Fannell, first tenor; A. James Laupt, second tenor; Marion Fonville, baritone, and Leon Felgar, bass. Charles Harding presides at the piano.

Monday's program calls for a grand entertainment of music, reading and bell ringing by the Carolineurs and Dr. Edwin Whitney, for years a member of the celebrated Whitney brothers.

The chautauqua equipment is the finest of the kind. The main tent is 90 by 130 feet. The entire tent space is surrounded by a seven foot wall canvass, which permits of splendid ventilation.

"Justice" Not Yet Provided for Bentleyville Connection

TRIAL TRIP IS TAKEN

Westside Electric Street Railways Company Host to Party of Citizens

The question of power is practically all that is holding up the opening up of the new Westside Electric Street Railways line from Charleroi to Bentleyville. As yet there has not been sufficient power turned in on the wires to enable the company to operate cars on any sort of schedule. A little ballasting of tracks and other incidentals of more or less importance will be necessary and work done at a stone quarry within a few minutes walk of Bentleyville but the chief thing is the matter of power. This is bought direct from the West Penn Electric company and this it is stated is where there is delay.

Friday night General Manager Charles F. Thompson, and Superintendent W. G. Callaghan were hosts to a party of local citizens on a trip to the stone quarry near Bentleyville. Had it not been for obstructions the party would have been taken clear through to Bentleyville.

The trip was made in one of the commodious new cars to be operated on the Bentleyville line. At Nelson's hill is where the lack of sufficient power showed. On the trip out the hill was ascended with comparative ease, though slowly, but on the return trip the load seemed heavy. Superintendent Callaghan did the motoring himself.

The new route is through a pretty country. Natural beauties such as can only be imagined are there, and the name scenic route is no misnomer.

The new line cannot well be opened up for several days yet. What the Bentleyville fare will be has not been decided. New cars will not run to Monessen for some time to come, owing to street conditions there. This will necessitate transfers at the opposite end of the Monessen-Charleroi bridge.

NEWSPAPERS.

The failure of the Indianapolis Sun to gain headway as a third paper in the city of Indianapolis, with over 250,000 population, the field now having but one evening and one morning newspaper—its owners asking for a receivership because of insolvency shows the growing difficulty in these days to make newspapers pay in fields which are already occupied, says the Washington Observer. Of the other two papers in Indianapolis one is independent in politics, while the other supports the Progressive principles. Neither the Republican nor Democratic parties has an organ in this field. The Scranton News commenting on the failure of a third paper to succeed in such an apparently inviting field says:

"The natural inference, from the fact that the Sun is insolvent, is that three newspapers can not be conducted profitably in this great field. The fact further illustrates the growing difficulties of making a considerable number of newspapers successful even in large fields, and it is a cumulative explanation of the trend of newspapers to merge or suspend, thereby lessening the number of dailies to a point where they can earn a fair return for both the capital and the effort expended upon them."

RAILROADS.

If a burglar enters and robs a house nobody doubts that he ought to go to prison, says the New York Press. But everybody doubts that, because he robbed the house, a lot of other people who did not enter and rob houses ought to go to jail with him. For officials who committed grave wrongs against the New Haven Railroad there is no reasonable excuse. If they are liable under the law, to restore some of the stockholders' money that they wasted or otherwise misused there is no reasonable objection to trying to get the money back from them. If they deliberately broke the criminal law there is no reasonable objection to trying to impose upon them the penalties of the criminal law. But there is reasonable objection to making other railroad officials and other railroads suffer because of things officials of the New Haven may have done to that road.

CATS AND DOGS

If an aspirant to the legislature should announce himself as a candidate on a platform two of the chief planks of which would relate to taxation for cats and increased taxation for dogs or the extermination of the same, he would be looked upon as lacking in certain essentials, but at that he would probably get some votes. Any proposal to do away with a few thousand felines and a few hundred thousand conines in the Keystone state would win sympathy.

Dogs annoy people and kill sheep. Cats infest porches and create back yard disturbances. Both are troublesome for the public good. If legislation for dogs or the extermination of the same, he would be looked upon as lacking in certain essentials, but at that he would probably get some votes. Any proposal to do away with a few thousand felines and a few hundred thousand conines in the Keystone state would win sympathy.

UNITED STATES BUREAU TELLS HOW TO DEAL WITH ARMY WORM

Letters [illegible] inquiries [illegible] have been soliciting aid from the U. S. Department of Agriculture to stop the advance of the hordes of army worms that [illegible] their fields of wheat, oats, [illegible] timothy, blue grass, and other grasses. There seems to be a general outbreak of this pest throughout the northeast of the Rocky Mountains. These worms are emerging from eggs laid by moths that apparently swarmed up from the southwest. Great numbers of these moths have been noticed during the past month. Lawns are being overrun by this pest.

The army worm is a smooth, striped caterpillar about an inch and a quarter long and a quarter of an inch in diameter. It is rather dark in appearance, usually does its work by night and hides by day, not being generally noticed. As soon as it has increased to such a number that its food supply falls short, it starts to travel and becoming bolder, feeds both night and day. The moth from which this worm hatches is brown with a white spot on the center of each fore wing. It measures about an inch and one-half from wing to wing.

If the worms have not yet attacked a field the most practical way to keep them out is to plow furrows in front of them, throwing the furrow in the direction toward which they are traveling. The worms will fall into the furrow and when this is full they may be killed either by dragging a log back and forth in the furrow or by destroying the worms in holes previously dug at intervals of 20 feet in the bottom of the furrow. Kerosene poured on them in the holes will destroy them.

If the worms are already in the field the following mixture which will attract the worms and destroy them could be spread about: One pound of paris green (poisonous), 50 pounds of wheat bran, juice of one-half dozen oranges.

This mixture should be brought to a stiff dough by the use of diluted molasses and scattered amongst the worms. Care should be taken to keep this dough from children or domestic animals.

Prompt action to prevent the worms from infesting a field is much better than later efforts to attempt to kill them in the grass. Once the caterpillars have infested a field, the measures necessary to destroy them may seriously hurt or even destroy the crop.

The worms at first are almost always localized in some definite breeding place in the field and immediate efforts should be taken to eradicate them in these small areas before they have had time to spread. The normal breeding place of the army worm is in rank grass, such as is usually found along the edges of swamps or in spots of pasture land that have been over-fertilized. They are practically never found in swamps, because the worm needs a reasonably dry place in which to breed.

Clean cultivation, rotation of crops, cleaning up of fence corners, close pasturage and the burning over of waste grass land in the spring or fall are good measures to prevent a recurrence of the army worm.

For small areas like lawns and private grounds, the poison bait mentioned above may be used. Equally efficient is the application of a spray of one pound arsenate of lead dissolved in 25 gallons of water. If the powdered arsenate of lead is more easily obtainable, one pound of this may be mixed with 8 pounds of flour and dusted on the grass where the worms are feeding. It must be remembered that arsenate of lead is a deadly poison to men and animals, as well as to army worms.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Several farmers were sitting around the cracker barrel in the country store telling how the potato pests had got into their crops, says an exchange. Said one:

"Them pests ate my whole crop in two weeks."

Then another spoke up:

"They ate my crop in two days, and then sat around on the trees and waited for me to plant more."

Here a seed agent for a seed house broke in:

"Well, boys," he said, "that may be so, but I'll tell you what I saw in our own warehouse. I saw four or five beetles examining the books about a week before planting time to see who had bought seed."

'Bena was much excited over the prospects of campmeeting that was about to take place in her neighborhood. For weeks she had been preparing gay and gaudy feathers for the array, and now her outfit was complete, save a pair of much-desired patent leather slippers," says the Woman's Home Companion. She approached her mistress.

"Miss' Ford," she said, "I sho' wants to git a pair o' slippers fo' de meetin' commences, an' I ain't got a single cent lef."

"What size do you wear, 'Bena?" asked her mistress.

"Mah right numbah is fo'," she replied, "but I has to weah sebens, 'cause fo's hurts me dat bad I jes' natcherly cain't hardly walk."

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE REVERSES THE LOWER COURT

In an opinion handed down by the superior court the judgment of the lower court is reversed in the suit of Edward U. Spence against the borough of Stockdale. The plaintiff was the appellant. Under the decree of the appellate court the case comes back for new trial. In this action the plaintiff was awarded six and one-fourth cents damages. He sought compensation for personal injuries sustained when he fell over a bad board in a walk on Beau street, in the borough of Stockdale, breaking a leg. He was laid up for several weeks.

The suit had rough sledding from the start. When the case was first called for trial the defense secured a continuance on account of improper remarks made by the plaintiff's counsel to the jury. This remark was to the effect that the plaintiff belonged to a certain fraternal order. Counsel for the defense at once objected and moved for a continuance. It was done at the expense of the plaintiff. When the case did come to trial and after a hard fight, the jury awarded the plaintiff the small sum named. The plaintiff moved for a new trial, which was refused. From the judgment of the lower court an appeal was taken.

QUITE A DIFFERENT GAME

Interesting to Speculate Whether Baseball Players Could Equal Dexterity of Ironworkers.

What would baseball experts do if they were suddenly called upon to pitch red-hot rivets? Could they pitch and catch red-hot rivets standing on planks on the eighteenth story, say, of a rising skyscraper as cleverly as they juggle with baseballs on the baseball field?

It is just as absorbing and interesting to many folks to watch ironworkers pitch and catch red-hot rivets as it is to watch two baseball teams in action. Undoubtedly it requires a great deal of cleverness. When danger in two forms is ever near the ironworkers. They may have a bad fall or be severely burned by a misdirected red-hot bolt. Judging by the manner in which they work, one would imagine they possessed as many lives as a cat.

A new steel skyscraper is being erected in any city, and the ironworkers engaged in putting the frame together are always successful in causing a crowd to gather by their expertness in pitching and catching red-hot rivets. Spectators gather on the opposite side of the street and watch the ironworkers hour after hour.

The men who are in charge of the actual riveting are continually supplied with red-hot bolts by a young man who stands near them with an empty keg in his hands. His duty is to catch the flying rivets as they are thrown through the air by another young man who heats the rivets at a small furnace situated some distance from the man with the barrel. The pitcher never makes a wild pitch and the catcher never makes a miss.

NOW A COLLAPSIBLE BRIDGE

One Has Just Been Built in Philippines That Defies Floods So Frequent There.

A so-called collapsible bridge has been designed by the bureau of public works for use in the Philippine islands, where there are streams carrying just enough water to be unfordable. These same streams, according to Engineering News, are subject to floods of extreme height and force, which carry down large quantities of brush and trees. It is necessary to provide some crossing, but money is not available in sufficient sums to permit the construction of bridges permanent enough to withstand the extreme flood conditions.

The new "collapsible" bridge is essentially a series of pile timber bents, carrying short span timber girders and floor, which are attached to cables reaching to "deadmen" on the shore. In general the girder and floor system is broken in the middle of the bridge, and the cables extend from either side of the river to a point midway. During a flood the floor and girder are torn from their insecure fastening to the bent and swing downstream, attached to the cables. After the flood has passed the floor system is floated upstream and placed again upon the timber bents.

One such bridge was recently built at Gapan across the Penaranda river in the Philippines, and it is giving good service. The Penaranda river has a flood width of 1,640 feet, but its low-water width is somewhat under 300 feet. The bridge constructed for this site is 320 feet long and is made up of 16 20-foot spans.

W. H. Ellis, a naval architect of the Scotch firm that built the Aquitania, was praising America.

"I have come to admire America tremendously since my arrival in New York," he said. "You are a wonderful country. But then you have so many natural advantages, haven't you?

"The River Clyde with us has been brought up to its present draft by means of dredging, and so the Scotch are very proud of it.

"Well, a party of American sight seers turned up their noses at the Clyde one day.

"'Call this a river?' they said. 'Why, it's a mere ditch in comparison with our Mississippi or St. Lawrence or Delaware.'

"'Aweel, mon,' said a Scotch bystander, 'you've got Providence to thank for your rivers, but we made this ourse'f.'"

The prisoner killed a young man who had obtained a license to wed her and then backed out. She was convicted on evidence of her alleged accomplice and her ten-year-old daughter.

Floorwalker Has Observed That Woman on Shopping Expedition Reveals Herself as She Is.

Someone has said that you can always judge the caliber of a man by the manner in which he amuses himself. My experience of 15 years as floorwalker in one of the largest department stores in the country has convinced me that you can always judge a woman by the way in which she shops—which, after all, is only another way of saying the manner in which she amuses herself.

I have learned to realize that when the average woman goes on a shopping expedition—when she has taken up the trail of the bargain, determined to track it to its native counter—she brings all her cleverness into play, and in the zest of the chase she is certain to reveal her true self and unconsciously drop the mask she wears on most social occasions.

Always on the alert, always eager to bring down the game, big or little, with a timely purchase, these shoppers you will see browsing about the counters in and out of season. You will see them questioning the salesgirls, trying to learn in advance when reductions are to be made. You will see them pick out some article and then come in day after day and watch its price tag. Then when the price is lowered to the point where they think it is a bargain, you will see them pounce on it and carry it home.—Woman's World.

LURE OF THE BRIGHT LIGHTS

Uncle Mose Could Not Be Satisfied While He Felt Himself Out of "Public Life."

A negro waiter named Mose had served with a measure of distinction for several years in a downtown New York restaurant with a large patronage among business men. One day last spring a customer offered him a good position as servant at his country home. He was to have a nice uniform with brass buttons, and the pay was to be much better than he was getting. Mose accepted—envied by his white-coated associates.

One morning recently Mose turned up at the restaurant and startled the proprietor by asking for his old job.

"Why have you left Mr. Brown's service?" asked the proprietor. "Did he discharge you? Didn't he treat you well?"

"No, sir, I ain't been discharged, and they certainly did treat me all right," responded Mose promptly.

"Then why in the world come back here? The pay is less and the work is harder."

Mose paused, looked vacantly out of the window for a moment, and with a broad grin on his face, whispered: "I wants mah ole job here again, 'cause I'se got to get back in public life, dat's all!"

Found in a Glacier.

Sir Martin Conway has recently told this story of finding a lost ax in the Alps: Zurbiggen, one of the celebrated mountain climbers of the world, in scaling a peak of Les Anglaises, near Chamounix, accidentally let his ax fall near the summit of the peak. It fell some thousands of feet. In the normal course of things it was buried in snow and swallowed up in the glacier, being covered deeper and deeper each year, and at the same time being carried slowly downward as the ice flowed on. Seven or eight years afterward Hon. C. G. Bruce and Harkbir, a Sepoy chief, in descending a peak of the Alps just as night was falling, and a great crevasse barred the way, being unable to find the bridge over it, cut a path down to to bottom, where Harkbir stepped on an ax which had M. Z. Zurbiggen's initials on the handle. There could be no mistake as to the identity of the ax, as Harkbir had seen it and used it before.

Call of the City.

Life in the city is needed for a real appreciation of the country. Blake, the painter and mystic dreamer, lived in the heart of London! Millet, the painter of French rural scenes, delighted in his life in Paris; Turner commenced life in Seven Dials. It is possible for people to live in the midst of earth's glories and not appreciate them till someone from the city reveals to them the charm. Of late years we have heard much of the cry: "Back to the land." It will never be much more than a cry. Men in the mass will not go back. Man's ideal is not the Garden of Eden. He has left that far behind and will never return to it.—Rev. W. H. Armstrong in the Daily Citizen.

Futurist Window Display.

An Oxford street store has turned one of its windows into a futurist boudoir, which is a regular "Midsummer Night's Dream."

There is an oxydized bed with black sheets and pillows, black and white striped wall paper, spruce and orange cushions scattered about at random on sofas or on the floor, and finally, one of these very green china parrots, the reason of which is not apparent.—Washington Herald.

More Chances for Coroners.

It is predicted that a speed of 100 miles an hour will be reached by electric and steam railways. Then even more persons will be reached by cannon ball express and limited trolley car at grade crossings.

What Constitutes Success?

There are different standards of judging. John Wanamaker ought to know something about it. He has attained heights in the business world where his opinion carry weight. Listen to what he says—

"The chief reason that everybody is not successful is the fact that he has not enough persistence. Do one thing well throwing all your energies into it. The successful man, unlike the poet, is made, not born."

Encouraging, isn't it? Now persist a little more diligently than ever. And let us help you by caring for your money.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging-down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast, or a general feeling that life is not worth living.

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. PUNCTURES POLICEMAN have fired five shots at them, and it was one of these bullets that came so near getting Damback. The men and women ran to the hilltop section, where they notified Officers Hyatt and Channing, who went in search of the gun wielders. They came upon them at the same place where the shots had been fired at the pedestrians and when Channing was within three feet of them Marchinak whipped a revolver from his pocket and fired at Channing at close range. The bullett struck him in the breast and passed through the lung. Hyatt at once landed on Marchinak and with a few blows from the butt end of his revolver felled him to the ground and placed the handcuffs on him.

Channing, although badly wounded, put up a game fight and the two men were taken by the officers. Channing was given medical attention at once, and Friday was taken to the Mercy hospital. The attending physicians say that he will recover unless blood poisoning or other complications develop.

Kasparo is being held as an accomplice, as the officers found no gun on him.

SPREADING LIGHT IN AFRICA

English Missionaries at Work Among People Who Purchase a Wife for a Knife.

Two English pioneers have penetrated the almost unknown country of the Niam Niam tribes in Central Africa, with the intention of founding a mission station. These are Mr. C. T. Studd, the famous cricketer-missionary, and Mr. A. B. Buxton, his future son-in-law.

They have reached a village called Niangara, in the territory of the Azandi, in the northeast of the Belgian Kongo.

"Living," they write of Niangara, "is cheap: Fowls, 24 cents; eggs, one cent each; bananas, 4 or 6 cents per 100; pineapples, 2 cents each; rice, 20 cents per 5 pounds; flour is not to be had; sugar, 30 cents per pound; and scarce at that. No tea; we estimate a man can live on $10 a month, including food and servants."

"The actual advance of the travelers has been slow, as they were delayed by the bearers laden with their baggage, but they have made various excursions from their camping places on a bicycle, ridden turn and turn about. It finally collapsed with a broken fork."

One of the bright spots of the journey was the discovery of the native village blacksmith, able more or less successfully to repair the damage.

Polygamy is practised among the Azandi, and Mr. Studd's bearers, having a little coin in their possession, were anxious to buy knives from him at 50 cents apiece, explaining that they could get a wife for each knife, a price, however, which they regarded as grossly exorbitant.

The missionaries, who are now setting to work with their own hands to build themselves permanent habitations, are beginning to pick up a few words of the native language, which has never been reduced to writing, and they intend soon to attempt preaching in public. They already have in view the establishment of a hospital, and it is hoped that some lady missionaries will be ready to face the hardships entailed and will work among the Azandi women.

SCARED AT SIGHT OF WATER

Indian's Stoicism Was Not Proof Against Object Which Was Absolutely New to Him.

"The American Indian is supposed to be proof against the ordinary human emotions of fear and surprise," remarked the engineer from Arizona; "but take it from me, that only holds good within the range of his practical experience. I recall an incident that occurred not long ago near the settlement of Gila.

"There is very little water in that part of the state. The few so-called streams are mere series of mudholes. By sinking artesian wells to a great depth, however, water may be obtained.

"I was one of a party in charge of a large irrigation project. One of our main ditches skirted an Indian reservation, and although the work was in progress for over a year, I doubt if any one of the red men understood what we were driving at. They seemed to think that we were building a railroad, for they would occasionally nod gravely to each other and imitate the sound of the snorting of an engine.

"Finally the time came to turn on the water. I rode over to inspect the ditch, near the reservation, and in that thirsty land the broad canal was a grateful sight. When the mounted figure of an Indian loomed up in the distance I did not pay much attention to it; but a few moments later I was startled by a loud whoop. I looked around, and saw the Indian with his horse reined back on his haunches. He had just perceived the water, and scared out of his natural reserve, was staring at it with an expression of terror."

Planting Dahlias.

Old dahlia roots can be planted intact just as lifted in the autumn, or if very large, they may be divided by cutting down the center of the dead stem and through the live portion at the base. They can be quartered, but all cut portions contain a part of the base of the old stem where the eyes are clustered. Plant in large holes with the crowns of the tubers four inches below the surface. Where plants are to be obtained from dealers they should be ordered at once. Prepare the beds now by deep digging, as only poor results will follow planting in poor soil.

Taking Her Literally.

Time—11:30 p. m.

Place—Parlor of her home.

She (indignantly)—Sir! Relieve me of your presence."

He rising and taking the ring from her finger, putting a sofa cushion under each arm, holding the dog in one hand, grabbing a chair, stuffing a chocolate box in his pocket and sticking a bunch of flowers in his mouth)—Just as you say; I'll send a messenger for the rest.

Suffrage in Spain.

Emilia Pardo Bazan has announced that she will start in the near future a national campaign in favor of woman suffrage. She is the foremost woman writer in Spain, her literary achievements having won for her the title of countess, which was given by King Alfonso in 1908. Spain is one of the three European countries which have not an organized woman-suffrage movement, the other two being Greece and the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg.

WORKMEN HAVE GRUESOME FIND

Body of Man With Leg Off Discovered Lying on Railroad Bank

Workmen going to work this morning at 6 o'clock at the Monongahela Valley Manufacturing company works on the M. and W. branch near Monongahela found the body of a foreigner lying on the railroad bank. The man was removed to Belout and Yoke morgue.

He had a watch in his pocket, which after being taken to several jewelers was found to be the same watch that was repaired by Joseph Landefeld last April for a man by the name of Frank Robeski. This young man is believed to be the same.

The man whose body was found is thought to be about 25 years of age. He is well built. He was neatly dressed in a brown suit. He had a new white necktie in his pocket, which it is believed he had just purchased.

The man's left leg was cut off, and it is believed that he was killed by the bummer late Friday night. No clew has been obtained as to the whereabouts of his home.

DIGGER STANLEY PREPARING FOR THURSDAY BATTLE

Digger Stanley, the local lightweight boxer has accepted terms for a ten-round bout with Tommy Allen ex-champion of Canada. The fact alone that the winner of this bout will be matched with Jack White at an early date in Milwaukee has made the local boxer work harder than ever to get in shape. Stanley claims he received a raw deal by the referee in his last bout with Allen and expects to prove it in their next meeting. The local fighter is training daily at a gymnasium. Judging from his earnest and careful preparation he is not taking chances and intends to be in perfect condition when he faces the Canadian fighter next Thursday. Stanley has many friends here who wish him success in his coming bout.
